His Majesty the King underlined the importance of performing one's duty wholeheartedly regardless of being recognized or not in a speech delivered at the graduation ceremony held by Chulalongkorn University on July 25, 1963. His Majesty the King compared performing one's duty with the common religious practice of placing gold leaves on an image of Buddha. His Majesty said that, instead of placing gold leaves only in front of the image of Buddha which most people liked to do, it was sometimes necessary to place gold leaves on the back as well. In fact, most people did not like to do so because they thought that nobody would see the gold leaves if they were placed on the back. If everyone placed gold leaves only in front and nobody did so in the back part, it was not possible at all to have a perfect image of Buddha covered entirely with gold.

Performance Outcome in Fiscal Year 2014

Out of the 4 strategic issues, the Department of Social Development and Welfare performed duties relating to the provision of social work and social welfare services for the disadvantaged, the poor, the destitute and people facing social problems under the Action Plan of the Department covering 3 strategic issues. As for the 4th strategic issue concerning the promoting of organization development to increase the capacity of the organization for management that keeps abreast of current changes, several activities were implemented including those which were concerning with problem solving and provision of assistance in the form of institutional-based or residential services, coordination and referral of clients to other agencies concerned and promoting participation by local communities and authorities in the provision of social welfare services such that the target groups facing social problems could lead their life and become self-reliant with human dignity. The work as performed by the Department of Social development and Welfare proceeded in a way that supported main activities and outputs relating to Strategic Issues 1-3 such that the efficiency and set goal under the plan could be subsequently achieved. The results classified by strategic issues are as follows:

Strategic Issue 1: Upgrading the system of providing quality social development and welfare services

To promote the strategic issue of upgrading the system of providing quality social development and welfare services, the Department adopted the following 3 strategies:

Strategy 1: Developing forms and innovations with regard to the management of social welfare service providing;

Strategy 2: Increasing the efficiency of welfare services;

Strategy 3: Promoting the role of local communities and networks in social welfare service providing;

The outcome as compared to the set target

Children and youth were provided with services suitable to their age. The target groups were provided with welfare services according to the set criteria. They went through the learning process and were equipped with skills at the level of criteria required to enable them to make a living and to safeguard themselves against social problems and risks.

The implementation of activities in response to strategy 1: Developing forms and innovations with regard to the management of social welfare service providing

Major plan/ project/activity: Children and youth were provided with knowledge and suitable family environment

The output as compared to the set target

The output was the target population who were provided with welfare services. The overall set target for the expected output covered 5 areas and the actual implementation of activities or services could cover 5 areas or 100% of the set target. To achieve the output, one key activity was implemented of which the details are as follows:

Key Activity: Developing the potential and protecting the disadvantaged, persons with disabilities and older persons which was implemented by:-

- 1) Developing the form and standard of services for the target groups which involved a study on the standard of personnel working in the area of social welfare service providing, support and development provided for residential homes to enable them to improve services to be up to standard, assessment of strategic plans and outcomes and the form of how to make use of local wisdom for the provision of social welfare;

2) Developing the form of social welfare service providing to open up opportunities and alternatives such that the disadvantaged could return to their families and communities.

The outcome as compared to the set target

The Department of Social Development and Welfare gained more knowledge and better understanding about its role and duty as a social welfare/social work service provider and the method of implementation which was up to standard and acceptable to the partners that were involved.

There was information made available by external organizations to be used for the analysis and improvement of the current policy and management in order to increase the department's efficiency and effectiveness.

The implementation of activities in response to strategy 2: Increasing the efficiency of welfare services which comprised the following 1 project and 1 output:-

Project: Developing the potential and protecting the target groups and their rights

Output 1: The target population who was provided with social welfare services.

The output as compared to the set target

The output was the target population who was provided with social welfare services. The overall set target was 6,500 persons and the actual output was 8,529 persons or 131.21% of the set target. To achieve the output, 3 key activities were implemented of which the details are as follows:

Key Activity1: Providing assistance through Prachabordi call center – Prachabordi Call Center is a center which people in distress can dial 1300 for services. The center which offers counseling service on the phone is the center where fast-moving mobile units are dispatched to help people who are in distress. It also refers cases to other concerned agencies to ensure that clients would be provided with assistance in response to their needs right on time. In 2014, the center was further developed to render services that covered the tasks of the department which was an organization responsible for rendering assistance in response to the needs of people facing all types of social problems. It became a center for social assistance (OSCC) that offered assistance in 4 main areas: immature pregnancy, child labour, human trafficking and violence against children, women, older persons and persons with disabilities. The problems that assistance was sought the most were those relating to children and youth, women and older persons respectively. The set target was 5,500 persons and the actual output was 7,620 persons.

prevention of unprepared pregnancy among teenagers. Leaders of creative thinking were developed to serve as networks for the training of trainers. These prospective trainers were equipped with knowledge and understanding of how to further pass on the knowledge they had gained to others which included how to prevent the problem of unprepared pregnancy among teenagers, adolescent psychology and the technique of how to provide counseling for teenagers regarding proper practice for a teenage mom-to-be after finding out that she was pregnant. A group of networks that played a leading role in shaping the thoughts of children and youth (Kru-Khor or those who would later serve as trainers) i.e. teachers, community leaders, members of tambon (sub-district) administrative organizations, volunteers, members of the children and youth council, leading children and youth at upper primary and upper secondary education who had already undergone training. These networks of human resources numbering 10,100 persons played a leading role in the driving force for the implementation of project activities and passed on the knowledge to other groups of children and youth in nearby schools or communities such that they had better understanding of how to come up with the right and appropriate prevention and problem solving. They were also involved in the campaign to raise community awareness regarding children and youth with the aim to provide communities with better understanding of problems that emerged and to encourage them to be further involved in extending the project outcome to other areas to reduce the severity of unprepared pregnancy problem. The target set was 24,745 participants and the actual output was 8,700 participants.

Key Activity 2: Enhancing the capacity concerning income and land in the target areas –

This involved the maintenance and repair of infrastructure facilities, roads, sources of water supplies in self-help land settlements and highland communities totally 17 sites.

The outcome as compared to the set target

The capacity of the target population had been promoted and enhanced. Care service was made available systematically resulting in life security and the ability to respond to each of the needs and problems of the people. The target population was prepared to be involved in family, community and local development so as to improve their quality of life and self-reliance.

Project: Promoting and providing the opportunity for women

Output: The number of women with capacity that was promoted and developed

Key Activity 8: Upgrading the quality of life along the community's way – It was a project that aimed towards strengthening decent community value and encouraging community members to learn and appreciate community arts, tradition and culture by organizing activities in certain occasions that they could participate. These included, for example, activities on the Buddhist Lent Day, Mother's Day, Father's Day, Loy-Kra-Thong Day. In addition to that, welfare assistance was provided for persons in distress or persons facing social problems. Immediate problem solving and assistance as well as rehabilitation services were offered to enable them to resume a normal life as rapidly as possible. The set target was 165,000 persons and the actual output was 78,590 persons.

Key Activity 9: Promoting the knowledge and occupational development along the concept of sufficiency economy - The set target was 3,740 persons and the actual output was 7,453 persons. Activities were concerning with:

1) Sufficiency economy under the Royal Initiative Projects – The set target was 3,300 persons and the actual output was 4,945 persons.

2) The coordinating center for the Royal Initiative Projects – The set target was 440 persons and the actual output was 2,508 persons.

Key Activity 10: Building the capacity in areas promoted to be the pilot sub-districts for social development and welfare – The capacity building proceeded under a holistic integrated approach. Focus of the approach was on the provision of social welfare services for the target groups under a the 5-pronged concept: breast feeding and household hygiene, warm love and care family environment, implementation of occupational development along the line of sufficiency economy, creation of environmentally friendly management and promotion of lifelong learning. Good cooperation had been sought and obtained from agencies within the Ministry of Social Development and Human Security and networks of partners in the private and civil society sectors. The main objective was to give support to families, communities and local organizations to enable them to become strong contributing to sustainable development which was required in the driving force to move the Thai society towards becoming “a welfare society”. All sectors were involved and gave support to the management and development of quality service providing. The set target was 975 sub-districts and the total number of beneficiaries was 4,578. The activities, which had been carried out, were concerning with:

1) New pilot sub-districts - The set target was 225 sub-districts and the total number of beneficiaries was 2,287.

2) Development and follow-up of old pilot sub-districts - The set target was 738 sub-districts and the total number of beneficiaries was 2,291.

3) Promotion of standard sub-district/ community welfare service providing - The set target of service providing was 12 sub-districts.

The outcome as compared to the set target

The capacity and quality of life of the target population had been developed. Their problems relating to income had been solved and they were able to work with others for their own community development.

Output: The number of older persons who were given support to access social security

The output as compared to the set target

The output was the number of target population who were provided with services relating to welfare for older persons. The overall set target was 88,480 persons and the actual output was 78,581 persons or 88.81% of the set target. To achieve the output, 3 key activities were implemented of which the details are as follows:

Key Activity 1: Organizing activities at social welfare development centers for older persons – Institutional-based services were available at 12 social welfare development centers for older persons. Qualified applicants must be over 60 years old who faced problems or were in distress, homeless, unhappy to be with their families or those who had no one to care for. They were cared for and provided with such services as the provision of 4 basic necessities, medical treatment, physiotherapy, social work, vocational rehabilitation, recreation and religious activities as well as cremation ceremonies when they passed away. The set target was 1,630 persons and the actual output was 1,404 persons. Activities were organized and services were offered by the centers to older persons which included being the source where news and information concerning welfare for older persons was disseminated; being the organizer of staff training, staff meeting or staff seminar, activities concerning capacity building of personnel from agencies in both public and private sectors; being the learning center where interested persons in general could pay a visit, learn about the work and exchange views and knowledge about older persons with others, being the place where counseling and referral services were provided for older persons who faced problems at the time of life crisis and the place where knowledge was provided about the rights and services for older persons. The set target was 51,630 persons and the actual output was 44,055 persons.

Key Activity 2: Supporting the activity involving with care given to young people by older persons – Support was given to older persons who were still able to help themselves to be involved in care for small children at community child development centers and to contribute their wisdom and lifelong experiences which people who were young or still active labor forces could further develop more useful knowledge. Such contribution was not only limited to the benefits the younger generations could get but it also further created a bond between older persons and the younger generations whether they were children, youth or people who were active labor forces. It also filled older persons with happiness and a sense of self-esteem as well as income for those who had problems in 74 provinces. The set target was 5,100 persons and the actual output was 4,293 persons.

Key Activity 3: Opening up opportunity and access to quality welfare services for older persons – Activities to prepare community members prior to becoming aging population were organized by providing knowledge and developing better understanding for people who were 50 years old or more in particular. They learned how to prepare themselves well in advance before entering the aging period such that they could later enjoy a good quality of life whether seen from the aspects of, for example, physical and mental well-being, housing conditions or financial management. The set target was 31,750 persons and the actual output was 30,233 persons.

The outcome as compared to the set target:

People in communities were prepared prior to becoming aging population. They were provided with knowledge of how to prepare themselves well in advance in order to be older persons who could enjoy a good quality of life whether seen from the aspects of physical and mental well-being, housing conditions or financial management for future security and not a burden to younger family members. Each center organized activities that raised older persons' self-esteem resulting in their preparedness for standard assessment. It also served as a model center for the provision of welfare services for older persons.

The implementation of activities in response to strategy 2: Strengthening families and communities to prevent social problems

Plan: Care for older persons, children, women and disadvantaged persons

Project: Capacity building, protection of the welfare and rights and the strengthening of the target population

Output: The number of target population who were provided with welfare protection and capacity building contributing to the strengthening of family units

The output as compared to the set target

The output was the number of target population who were provided with welfare protection and capacity building. The overall set target was 7,180 persons and the actual output was 16,472 persons or 117% of the set target. To achieve the output, 1 key activity was implemented of which the details are as follows:

Key Activity: Preventing domestic violence and protecting victims of domestic violence - The overall set target was 7,180 persons and the actual output was 16,472 persons. Under this key activity, the following activities were carried out:

1) Providing victims of domestic violence with welfare protection, assistance, treatment and rehabilitation services – Victims of domestic violence were under the care of shelters for children and families located in 77 provinces nationwide. They served as reception or temporary shelters for the victims where services were made available including the 4 basic necessities to meet the requirements as specified in the 3 laws: the Domestic Violence Victim Protection Act B.E. 2550 (2007), the Child Protection Act B.E. 2546 (2003) and the Act on Prevention and Suppression of Trafficking in Persons B.E. 2551 (2008).

2) Providing protection and assistance by the Operation Center for the Protection of Victims of Domestic Violence – Services were provided in the areas of Bangkok with cooperation being maintained with the networks of agencies to render services through a multidisciplinary team, the networks of staff at actual implementation level and concerned agencies in the prevention of domestic violence. Common guidelines for both domestic and international practices were formulated and a more pro-active approach was adopted and implemented in collaboration with local administrative organizations and networks targeting towards the groups of children, women, family members and persons living in the family, high-risk groups and families in the areas so as to prevent the problem of domestic violence.

The outcome as compared to the set target:

There were Tambon family clinic service centers that provided counseling service for families and persons facing social problems who applied for services at the centers. For each client, other services that subsequently followed included a home visit, an analysis of information concerned to find out the nature of problems of a person facing social problems, the grouping of the problems to plan for further assistance and the promotion of family activities for a person facing social problems who applied for services at the centers.

The implementation of activities in response to strategy 3: Building the capacity of the target groups to be prepared to merge into the ASEAN Community

Project: The project to move the implementation of activities/services forward towards the country's merging into ASEAN Community

The output as compared to the set target

The output was the number of target population who gained more knowledge about joining the ASEAN Community. The overall set target was 15,440 persons and the actual output was 12,540 persons or 81.21% of the set target. To achieve the output, one key activity was implemented of which the details are as follows:

Key Activity: Building the capacity of the target groups and networks concerning ASEAN

– Under this key activity, the following activities were carried out:

1) Enhancing the capacity of highland community leaders in preparation for merging into ASEAN Community – This involved a study of the forms of social protection found in rendering care for the target groups in communities and how to use social protection in order to deal with the impact from merging into ASEAN Community. These target groups as abovementioned included leaders of local administrative organizations and community leaders on social development. The set target was 1,400 persons and the actual output was 890 persons.

2) Integrating various mechanisms/ approaches in areas under the tambon model of social development and welfare in 76 provinces in preparation for merging into the ASEAN Community – In each province, 3 tambons or sub-districts were selected to become the tambon model. In this connection, cooperation was maintained with local administrative organizations/ communities and training was organized to provide knowledge about ASEAN Community for the task forces in charge of implementing an integrated approach to tambon development or passing on knowledge about ASEAN Community to people in tambon areas. The set target was 11,400 persons and the actual output was 8,520 persons.

3) Implementing a project on the establishment of a knowledge-sharing forum where views concerning social welfare in preparation for the ASEAN Community could be exchanged - The set target was 840 persons and the actual output was 840 persons.

4) Implementing a project on building a network of community leaders in ASEAN - The set target was 100 persons and the actual output was 890 persons.

5) Developing the capacity of the target groups and personnel in welfare institutions - The set target was 200 persons and the actual output was 200 persons.

6) Increase awareness among women and children concerning ASEAN Community - The set target was 1,500 persons and the actual output was 1,200 persons.

The outcome as compared to the set target

The target population gained knowledge about crossing the threshold of ASEAN Community. They passed the standard criteria of knowledge assessment. Training was organized for the task forces in charge of implementing an integrated approach to tambon development and they were, as a result, capable of passing on what they had learned to communities. The transfer of knowledge increased community awareness and enhanced better understanding about the forms of social protections found in communities where there was a blend of cultures with neighboring. Attempt had also been made to enhance the ability to communicate in English to cushion the impact arising from merging into ASEAN Community.

Strategic Issue 3: Promoting an integrated approach and enhancing the capacity of quality networks

In order to implement the strategic issue of promoting an integrated approach and capacity building of networks for quality services, the Department adopted the following strategy:

Strategy: Promoting the building of a quality social network system

Output: The networks with capacity that had been built and developed

The output as compared to the set target

The output was the number of networks with capacity that had been built and developed. The overall set target was 799 networks and the actual output was 799 networks or 100% of the set target. To achieve the output, 4 key activities were implemented of which the details are as follows:

Key Activity 1: Maintaining follow-up and developing the capacity of networking system

– There was the implementation of a project to follow up and develop the capacity of social development and human security networks at district level. A forum was held to conclude lessons learned and share working experiences gained in the past as seen from a social point of view. Networks at district level were able to integrate and bring about people participation in sharing and learning from each other about social development and welfare. There was a briefing to give detailed information about the roles and responsibilities of the Ministry of Social Development and Human Security, the results of follow-up, the networking system and the capacity to render social welfare services to the disadvantaged and persons who were in distress. The aim was to increase more access to services and enable local communities to eventually become self-reliant. The set target was 295 networks and the actual output was 259 networks.

Key Activity 2: Promoting the form of social welfare service providing among networks – Such promotion was done by conducting a study in cooperation with the field-level organizations to examine the nature of problems and forms of existing social welfare service providing. Subsequently, knowledge was provided for a total of 228 local administrative organizations and networks on how to activate the form of social welfare service providing that had been improved. The form which was up to standard and suitable with each particular area was presented to the networks to guide and move the driving force for the promotion of improved social welfare service providing. The guideline was adjusted to benefit field-level areas and to follow up the results of promoting the form of social welfare service providing that had been introduced. The set target was 228 networks and the actual output was 228 networks.

Key Activity 3: Strengthening the networking system of the Technical Promotion and Support Offices (Area 1-12) – Action was taken with regard to the review and analysis of data and information for the preparation of a plan to strengthen the social development and welfare networking system (the Road Map during 2013-2015) at the levels of sub-district, district, province and provincial group. The preparation of the plan was approved by the Director-General of the Department and the action plan to strengthen the social development and welfare networking system was further developed. Under the plan, a survey was conducted and information was collected from all groups of organizations both in the public and private sectors that were involved in social development and welfare at district level whether seen from the area-based, issue-based or group-based dimensions covering a total of 878 districts. A forum was held to develop better understanding about the roles and responsibilities regarding the provision of social development and welfare. A linkage with various groups of organizations was systematically developed covering areas at sub-district, district and provincial levels which made care for the target groups to become more thoroughly provided.

Key Activity 4: Strengthening and supporting the technical aspect of social development and welfare – The activity was promoted through the implementation of a project on the integration of social development and welfare plans at provincial group level.

The outcome as compared to the set target:

The networks, that had been built and systematically developed, were involved in advancing social welfare which would benefit the capacity of the networks themselves, families, communities and fellow citizens in nearby areas. The process of social development at field level was also strengthened whether seen from the group-based, issue-based or area-based dimension.
